With regard to the language, all the elements marked above were available or furnished to this Authority in the language in which the international application was filed, unless otherwise indicated under this item. These elements were available or furnished to this Authority in the following language _____ which is:

- ☐ the language of a translation furnished for the purposes of international search (under Rule 23.1(b)).
- ☐ the language of publication of the international application (under Rule 48.3(b)).
- ☐ the language of the translation furnished for the purposes of international preliminary examination (under Rule 55.2 and/or 55.3).

3. With regard to any nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence disclosed in the international application, the international preliminary examination was carried out on the basis of the sequence listing:

- ☐ contained in the international application in written form.
- ☐ filed together with the international application in computer readable form.
- ☐ furnished subsequently to this Authority in written form.
- ☐ furnished subsequently to this Authority in computer readable form.

IV. Lack of unity of invention

1. In response to the invitation to restrict or pay additional fees the applicant has:

- ☐ restricted the claims.
- ☐ paid additional fees.
- ☐ paid additional fees under protest.
- ☐ neither restricted nor paid additional fees.

2. ☒ This Authority found that the requirement of unity of invention is not complied with and chose, according to Rule 68.1, not to invite the applicant to restrict or pay additional fees.

3. This Authority considers that the requirement of unity of invention in accordance with Rules 13.1, 13.2 and 13.3 is

- ☐ complied with.
- ☒ not complied with for the following reasons:

The subject matters of claims 1, 3-5 and 8-11 relate to an organic EL display luminance control method for controlling the luminance based on the difference between the luminance accumulation value of video input signals and a predetermined value.

The subject matters of claims 12-14 relate to a cellular phone having an organic EL display in which the brightness of the environment is judged based on the exposure control information of a camera for controlling the display luminance.

The subject matters of claims 15 and 16 relate to a cellular phone in which the display luminance of an organic EL display is controlled based on the orientation of the display surface.

4. Consequently, the following parts of the international application were the subject of international preliminary examination in establishing this report:

- ☒ all parts.
- ☐ the parts relating to claims Nos. _____

 Document 6: JP, 2001-22319, A (Matsushita Electric Industrial Co., Ltd.), 26 January, 2001 (26.01.01)

Explanation:

The subject matters of claims 1, 3-5, 8 and 9 do not appear to involve an inventive step in view of documents 1-3 cited in the ISR.

It is considered to be obvious for a person skilled in the art that the well-known technique, in which the reference voltage of a DA converter provided in a display is adjusted to control the amplitude of an input video signal for luminance control (for example, documents 2 and 3), is employed instead of the control of a supply voltage, as a means for controlling the luminance of a display screen based on a luminance accumulation value (average luminance) in the organic EL display described in document 1 (see paragraph Nos. [0002] and [0019]-[0021]).

A case where the luminance of a display screen is controlled over the entire range of luminance accumulation values corresponds to a case where the luminance is controlled based on the differences between luminance accumulation values and a predetermined value of 0.

Furthermore, it is also considered to be obvious for a person skilled in the art that the control with a predetermined threshold value can be employed to control the amplitude only when the luminance accumulation value is high as described in document 2 (see paragraph Nos. [0097] and [0108]), with the reduction of power consumption in mind.
